with me every minute of the twentyfour hours of my stay there.

"When I reached St. Pierre I was surprised that more of the dead were not in sight. Not more than a thousand bodies were strewn along the streets, the others being at least partly buried under the mantle of ashes and cinders spread by Mont Pelee.

"Every moment of my stay in St.
Pierre I feared that the volcano would again beich forth its billows of deathdealing fire. It continues active, vomiting lava in streams, which flow down its sides, changing the surface of the northern end of the island every hour.

"It is the stench and danger of pestilence that makes St. Pierre a place of even greater horror than was caused by the first result of the explosion of Mont Pelee. All of the bodies first found on the surface have been burned by soldiers; but few of those in the ruins have been dug out. It will require months, unless a greater force of men is employed, before the dead are properly disposed of.

"The sand and ashes that cover the city are still hot. Waves of heat come down from the crater of the volcano, making work among the ruins difficult when it is not absolutely impossible. "Reports that all of the inhabitants of the village of Le Precheur have been brought to this city are not true. A great wave of lava swept across one portion of the village, destroying the lives of about eight hundred inhabitants. Others fied to the sea shore and were reacued by the French cruiser Suchet. Other villages at the foot of Mont Pelee were desiroyed by lava, which flowed along the courses formerly followed by rivers.

"Indignation against Gov. Mouttet grows as the panic of the survivors subsides. It is remembered that while Mont Pelee was threatening and giving warning of the disaster it was about to work, the Governor refused to permit any general exodus from St. Pierre, following the advice of a meeting of scientists who declared on May 7 that "Some food has been brought here from neighboring islands, but famine still continues to threaten the refugees. All are on half rations, and when it is remembered that pestilence is the immediate menace, it can be understood why there should be plenty of food to give those who may be attacked strength to fight the disease.

"Vandalism has already begun at St.

"Vandalism has already begun at St. Pierre, and although soldiers are trying to guard the dead, looting is going on in a shameful manner. An announcement will soon be made providing severe penalties for all who are caught stealing in the island.

"In the harbor of St. Pierre a steam-hip is in constant readiness to take warning, and if the lava turns in the direction of St. Pierre the place will be immediately deserted.

"Aside from those working in the ruins there is not a human being in the northern part of the island. All of Mr. Scott, the first mate of the Ro-

While this was being dene, Margaret's little brother died. Mate Scott brought the child water at great personal danger, but it was unavailing. Shortly after the death of the little boy, Mrs. Stokes succumbed. Margaret and Miss King eventually got away on the raft and were picked up by the ramer Korona. Mate Scott raise escaped. Miss King did not sustain serious injury. She covered the face of Margaret with her dress, but still the child was probably fatally burned.

The only woman known to have survived the disaster at St. Pierre was a negress named Fillottee. She was found in a cellar Saturday a tenucon, where she had been for three days. She was still alive, but fearfully burned from head to toes. She died in the hospital here.

PROBLEMS OF BANKING.

Discussion of Them by Able Financiers.

Interesting Papers on Branch Banking.

Widely Divergent Views in Regard to the Proposed System.

IBY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.]
KANSAS CITY, May 13.—The bankers of Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Indian Territories met in joint convention here today, and with many castern financiers of hote present listened to addresses on various topics.

Five hundred delegates attended the sessions, which will be continued to-

Thomas B. Patton of New York, editor of the Banking Law Journal, delivered an address to the Missouri association on "The Evolution of Banking Law." Mr. Patton spoke on the laws which govern the business dealings of bankers—not so much the laws which govern the organization and powers of banking corporations as those laws which govern the instruments of trade in which bankers deal; the bills, notes, checks and other instruments repreter to deal in and make effective.

governing bills, notes and checks the dealings of bankers is the re-of a peculiar process; it consists body of rules which have been of a body of rules which have been built up piecemeal by Judicial decisions founded on custom. It had developed out of the disputes of men. The process originated in England, and has continued in the various States since the American revolution. At occasional periods in this process of judicial rule-building there have been statutory canaciments, providing rules on this or that particular point of commercial is w.

that particular point of commercial iaw.

He traced in detail the evolution of this process from its starting point in England to the customs of merchants established (600 years ago, and showed how, when this country came to be established into a nation of independent States the process was continued independent States the process was continued independently in each of the States and Territories of the Union. The result has been the establishment of many independent systems of State laws, the statutory and judicial, governing banking and the instruments of commerce, whereas the subject governed is not confined to State lines, but is national is scope. The speaker pointed out many instances of conflict of State laws, and showed, as the result of the present condition of the law, made up so largely of independent and antagonistic State rules, that great losses are caused to the mercantile and banking community, and that commercial transactions between the States are hampered.

Of late years the condition of the hampered.

Of late years the condition of the law governing bills, notes and checks, when used in inter-State dealings, has been improved by the enactment of a uniform negotiable instruments law which, up to date, has been enacted in seventeen of the States and Territories besides the District of Columbia. The improvement and unification of the law, which enter into the inter-State dealings of bankers and merchants must be hoped for in the course of time when all the State Legislatures act in uniform accord and when all the judges come to think alike.

BRANCH BANKING.

up with the discussion of the topic "branch banking." Horace White, ediof the New York Evening post, who was the first speaker, took a stand in favor of branch banks. He said in

There is a wide diversity of opinion this country as to the advisability branch banking, and this diversity branch banking, and this diversity exists largely among bankers themselves. The doctrinaires, the college professors, the economists are generally in favor of banking. They are not, however, so far as I know, in favor of forcing that system upon the national bankers against their will. Patriotism is not concerned in promoting it. Some people think that patriotism is concerned in opposing it, and that branch banks, if permitted to exist will destroy American liberty. Suc. persons do right to oppose it. Those who think that it would be, on the whole, a wise policy for the country, agree that they that it would be, on the whole, a wise policy for the country, agree that they have no special claim upon the public attention, and I for one, do not believe that branch banking will ever be adopted by Congress until the majority of bankers acquiesce in it. Nevertheless I believe that it will come because I believe that it will be economical and profitable to all banks, both in city and country, and that it will extend and enlarge instead of crippling their business, and that after trying it they will wonder why they were ever opposed to it."

ANSWER TO OBJECTION. Mr. White reviewed the branch bank-ing system in the early United States, in Canada, Scotland, France and Ger-

in Canada, Scotland, France and Germany. He continued:
"An objection urged against branch banks is that they will draw away all the money from the small towns and use it in large cities. This objection is not in harmony with the one which says that the large city banks will send so much money into the smaller towns through the branches, and will lend at such low rates that the existing banks cannot make a living. We might leave these two classes of objectors to neutralize each other, but my opinion is that the flow of capital to and from small towns under the branch system will bear pretty close relation to the demand. Drawing away money from the small town when there is a local use for it, would soon bring the branch to an end. My belief is that more money would go from the large city to the small town through branches than does now in through branches than does now in the shape of reference of the paper of independent ban."
"A third objection is that, if it is permitted all the banks will be consolitated into a genuine trust so that no-cody can get any money except on terms dictated by a few powerful magnates. In reply to this we might point to the examiles of other countries where branch banking has full swing.

rerms dictated by a few powerful mag-nates. In reply to this we might point to the examples of other countries where branch banking has full swing and where there is not the smallest sign of a "money trust," although trusts and monopolies in other trades are plentiful. On the contrary the sharpest rivalry exists and the rate of interest there tends downward rather than upward. This happens too of interest there tends downward A very beautiful line. Correct thing for some monopoly by law. Money cannot be monopolized. You never could get an agreement of bakers to attempt it. but if they do so, the combination could not last a week.

PROBLEM OF FUTURE. "Within a comparatively brief period the bonded debt of the United States redeemed and canceled. It is not likely that the nation will continue for an indefinite period to pay interest on a debt of which it might easily pay the principal. Such a policy would be unjust to the taxpayers, and could not fail to meet public condemnation. So the problem is not merely how to make note issuing under the present system a little more profitable, but how to keep the system going at all. It cannot be done, except by using other securities than United States bonds.

"The advantages of branch banking are briefly these: Other things being equal, two banks joined together are stronger than one and three are stronger than one and three are stronger than two.

"For this reason the public have greater confidence in a union of banks than in the same number of banks than in the same number of banks taken separately. Branch banking would therefore, improve the credit of the banks so allied and increase their deposits.

"Branch banking would reduce the the banks so allied and increase their deposits.

"Branch banking would reduce the expense of banks and accrue to the customers in the form of lower rates of interest; it would tend to uniform interest rates; it has the advantage of extending to small places the security assured by the strength of the parent institution; it affords facilities for communicating knowledge of the relative needs of business in the different localities. Branch banking is bound to come; you can't stop it."

Is bound to come; you can't stop to YATES ANSWERS WHITE.

Henry W. Yates of Omaha, president of the Nebraska National Bank, spoke next and in opposition to branch banks, saying in part: "We are consclous of the weaknesses which prevail in our, banking system, and we are desirous of having them removed, and the system strengthened and improved in any manner that good judgment and wise experience will dictate. But it does not follow from this that we should conclude that our banking system is se utterly bad that the only remedy for the situation is its entire extinguishment and the creation in its place of another system. This is what I believe would result from the passage of a law which would establish among us the monarchical British and continental systems of large central banks with numerous branches.

"Two features of the bill reported by the banking and currency committee of the House—freedom from capital and from taxation—would seem to settle the question against the independent banks. The system as proposed would destroy them.

and from taxation—would seem to settle the question against the independent banks. The system as proposed would destroy them.

"The passage of the pending bill, by destroying the harmonious relations which now exist in our banking world, and by threatening the existence of our present organized banks, would not only be disastrous to the banks concerned but it would be a national calamity."

the situation has proved futile. The indications are that the delegates favoring a strike are in the majority and will win their fight in the convention.

The proposition of the stationary firemen to go out with the finders, if the latter will indorse the firemen's demands for a shorter work day without a reduction in wages, has helped to complicate the situation. The radical strike advocates insist that the miners' union should accept the proposition which would result in the suspension of work by the engineers, frenien and pump runners, and thus cause the operators a large financial loss through the flooding of the mine workings. It was held by them that the mine owners would concede the men something rather than see their property ruined.

NEW YORK, May 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the most interesting will cases tried in a long time in King's county Surrogate's Court was decided today in favor of the will. The plaintiffs were the niece and husband of Susan S. Stories of a remarkable case of religious mania, involving a heathen Chlinee were brought out. Mrs. Allen imagined she was called to convert the heathen Chinee and began operations on one Fong Gui. She converted him, and gave him a laundry which prospered. Mrs. Allen wanted Gui to wed a white girl who could accompany her to China as a maid. Mrs. Allen found the girl, but one month was enough for Gui, and he quietly sold the laundry, and went to San Francisco. Mrs. Allen decided that she was mistaken about being called to convert the heathen, made her will and died. The contest followed.

Many of the Injured Likely to Die.

Every Home in Village Nurses a Victim.

Public Schools Almost Descreed by Pupils, Scores of Whom are Hurt.

PITTSBURGH, May 13.—A careful and systematic search for the dead and injured in the Sheraden horror of yesterday reveals tonight a list of twenty-three dead and 202 injured. The complete list of the injured may never be known, as many were able to get away without making known their identity. A conservative estimate made by those familiar with the situation by those familiar with the situation places the number more or less se-riously hurt at not less than 300. This list will likely be added to during the night, as a number of the victims at the hospitals are reported by the physicians to be in such serious condition that it will be a miracle if they survive.

There are scores of people in Sheraden who should be in the hospital, but for want of room they are being cared for by friends. Some of this class are also expected to die.

The scenes in and around Sheraden today were pittful in the extreme. Practically every house in the village had one or more injured inmates, and in many homes mourning families were gathered about the charred and distorted remains of loved ones who were victims of the terrible calamity. Many children were caught by the flames yesterday, and as a result the two public school buildings today were almost deserted. Of the seven hundred pupils enrolled but two hundred were in attendance at the sessions today. Of the five hundred absent Prof. Han-pupils enrolled but two hundred were in attendance at the sessions today. Of the five hundred absent Prof. Hannum estimates that 100 were injured. The chindren have started a fund for the aid of their unfortunate schoolmates, some of whom are in need of nancial assistance.

The damage to property by the explosion will probably be heavy. The loss at the mouth of Corks. Run tunnel alone will probably exceed $100,000. In addition to the heavy loss by the railroad company twenty-five houses were destroyed either by the force of the explosion or by the fire which followed.

Rochelle, who built Lyrie Hall and taught the Vanderbilts how to dance years ago. She was riding in the last coach of the New Haven railroad into which the Harlem local ploughed on that fatal morning. Her nose was driven into her forehead by being caught between two seats, while her fare and scalp were filled with broken glass. She went through two paintul operations in a New York hospital, and her beauty was partially restored by splicing together her nose and pieces of skin from other parts of her body. The railroad company paid all of Miss Rice's expenses, which amounted to several thousand of dollars for nurses, doctors and specialists.

ORT THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-A M.I PORT AU PRINCE (Hayti) May 13.— Ex-President Sam embarked at 11:30 am. today on the French steamer Olinde Rodriguez. He was accompanied to the landing place by the American, French and German ministers.

At about the time that the former President embarked on the French steamer here, news was received from Cape Haytien, on the north coast, to the effect that Gen. Firmin, late Haytien Minister in Paris, had arrived at Cape Haytien, and had been proclaimed President. The dispatches added that the whole north and northwest of Hayti had declared for Gen. Firmin. MESSAGE FROM CONSULA

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Secre-tary of State has received a dispatch from the American Minister in Hayti, dated Tuesday, 1 a.m., as follows: The chambers have been closed by a mob. Much firing ensued and one deputy was mortally wounded. The populace attacked the palace and the arsenal last night. Several were killed and wounded. The diplomatic corps embarked with the President at 12 o'clock today. The Minister for Foreign Affairs and the Minister for War have taken refuge at the American Legation. Firmin, with his army, is marching on Port au Prince. Great excitement prevails at Port au Prince and business is suspended for the present." deputy was mortally wounded.

MANT TROOPS RETAINED.

MANILA, May 13.—Within the last few days petitions against the removal of American troops have been received from sixteen towns and villages. The reason for these petitions is said to be fear of bandits after the troops have left. It is believed in some quarters that the petitioners are more probably influenced by a desire to retain the trade of the American soldiers in the places in question than by fear of robber depredations.

STEWART TALKS SENSE. Consideration then was resumed of the Philippine Government Bill, and ir. Stewart of Nevada addressed the senate in support of the messatra. He had listened to the debate with surprise, he said, as it was more acrimonious than any debate he had ever heard. He could not understand why such animosity had been excited, as our control of the Philippines had been acquired through the Spanish war, which was an act not of any political party, but of the government itself, without regard to party. Both parties were equally responsible. He did not believe in making promises to the Filipines. We had made promises to Cuba that we ought not to have made. "Cuba," he said, "ought to have been ours as a result of the war. It will be ours in time, without doubt. I warn my friends on the other side that there is no political gain to be had from their attack on the army."

Mr. Tillman inquired of Mr. Stewart if the committee intended to give the Philipines the silver dollar proposed in the bill to be coined.

Mr. Stewart said that from time immemorial the Mexican dollar had been used as a standard in the Philippines. The pending bill simply provided the Filipinos with a stable currency of a kind they had been accustomed to.

Mr. Tillman twitted Mr. Stewart with a change of his views on the silver question.

The Nevada Senator warmly denied the imputation. His views, he said, had not changed. For the present, at least, the silver question was dead because the enormous output of gold had made good times. The Omnibus Claims Bill was sent back to conference, but the debate was protracted by Mr. Underwood's motion instructing the conferees not to accept the Senate amendment covering the findings of the Selfridge navail board for balances due on vessels built during the Civil War. In dealing with this trust, the President and Mr. Knox will have taken hold upon the most elusive combination that exists anywhere, for it has no officers, no offices, no meeting place and no property, yet controls the price of coal and everything connected with the production and sale of that sarticle throughout the eastern part of the United States, at least.

Boardman was then invited to luncheon with Senator Dietrich, Senator Beveridge being the second-guest. The salmon salad and the soup made of the compound supplied to the army were the two principal articles on the bill of fare, and both appeared in very tempting form when upon the table. Senators and soldier guest were all helped equally and bountifully to both dishes, and all ate heartily of them. The Senators were, of course, familiar with the ingredients, but Boardman did not know so much, nor has he yet been told the secret of his invitation to lunch with the two United States Senators. The Senators declare the food was very palatable, and they age that Boardman's objections to the rations appeared to have vanished when the food was served to him today.

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) May 13.—
Archie McEachern, the well-known champion bicycle rider of Toronto, while being paced by a motor tandem this afternoon at the Coliseum track, met with an accident which resulted in his death twenty minutes later. The accident was the result of the breaking of the chain on the motor cycle.
Riding the tandem were Alf Boake and Robert B. Thompson, who have raced with McEachern for ten years past.

The effort, this afternoon, was to establish a new mile record. Several miles had been covered when the chain broke, and in the sudden slowing up of the damaged tandem, McEachern collided with it, and shot into the air like a rocket. His head struck against a projecting board which clut a gash in his neck, from which blood spurted in a stream. The jugular velic had been torn open. He expired shortly after his removal to a hospital. Boake and Thompson were uninjured.

VALUABLE KERN PROPERTY.

ISPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES;

BAKERSFIELD, May 13,—A couple of deeds which tell a tale that is not at all conclusive, but which simply arouses curiosity, have been filed with the Recorder. They are conveyances from J. J. Mack to F. W. Smith and from the latter to C. A. Canfield, of an undivided one-eighth interest in section 31, 28, 28. The consideration was $100 in each instance. The first deed refers to another deed by which Mr. Mack received the interest from John W. White and wife.

The land involved is that upon which are located the Peerless, Sterling, Sovereign, Vesta, Bear Flag, Queen Esther. Sycamore, Senator, Hanford-Fresno, Clarence and the Green and Whittier companies. As these enterprises originally gained their interests from John A. Bunting, who was supposed to have purchased the entire section from the Southern Pacific railroad, this latest deal in that portion of the property naturally raises the question, where did Mr. White and his wife get into the game? HOW THE TIMES TREATS LABOR.

THE LOS ANGELES TIMES pays to its skilled workmen wages that aver from $3.75 to $4.50 per day for time work, and from $4 to $5.50 per for piece work. These rates are higher than are paid by any competing The Times pays larger sums weekly, monthly and yearly for between August, 1890, and the end of September, 1901, aggregated or,000.81, and its annual expenditures for labor of all classes, both skilled skilled, now average more than $175,000 per year. There never has any attempt, in any quarter, to deny these specific and telling facts, proprietors challenge such denial if made. The Times has a more and satisfactory force of workmen than any rival newspaper ent; and not for years has it had any trouble with its works who are independent of unions, loyal to their employers and to themselves, well satisfied and prosperous. The Times controls its own business in its own way, subject only to the laws of the land; and no interference with that control can be lawfully or justly made. The result of its fixed policy has proven highly beneficial to all concerned, and the justness and correctness course have for years past received public approval in most marked picuous ways, the circulation and advertising patronage of the paper steadily and largely outstripping that of all local rivals.

W. F. X. Parker has been identifled with machine politics in Califorfor everything that is objectionable in the way of political insincerity and trickiness. His selection by Gage as one of his principal campaign man-agers is another illustration of the sort of men whom the Governor relies upon to secure a renomination. From the time when he first entered the gubernatorial office, Gov. Gage has seen fit to ally himself, almost continuously, with the most disreputable elements to be found in political life. A man in private life is judged in large part by the company he keeps, and a Governor cannot escape the same sort of judgment.

Gov. Gage, through his unsavory political associations and his notoriously weak and censurable appointments, has forfelted the confidence and esteem of the great mass of Republicans in California. Having thus lost caste in his own party, through his own lack of judgment and foresight, he must needs rely upon the machine element, and upon machine methods to secure a renominationif he can secure it at all. He dare able and honest elements of his party, for he knows that if he did so he would be turned down with neatness the event herself, for this reason—it's an enforced vacation, caused by the principal of the school suspending Lille for irregular attendance.

The City Board of Education, which makes rules and regulations and things, and says what children must do and mustn't do if they want to abide under the wing of the city school tacker.

do and mustrit do if they want to abide under the wing of the city school teacher, is hereby given a tip to take to the tall timber.

They stand in imminent danger of being sued, individually and collectively, by the irate Mrs. Pierce, for thus enforcing a vacation on her little one. Mrs. Pierce is saying things not at all complementary to the system in vogue in our city schools, and declares she will bring suit to compel the board to readmit her child. She says she has some good money she is willing to use to determine whether a child who receives first-class grades in studies and deportment can be summarily turned out of school for tardiness. The State makes attendance at school compulsory, says Mrs. Pierce, and the city school rulings make it difficult—and there you are.

Miss Rate McCarthy, principal of the Hays-street school, was seen last night and stated that Lillie Pierce was a bright pupil and she is sorry to lose her. However, the board has magic a ruling that three absences without a reasonable excuse make cause for sunpension. The child had been absent three half days, and came late Monday morning, without an excuse from her mother. She wrote to Mrs. Pierce, askingh et o call and have a talk with her, but the mother refused, and there was but one course for her to follow, that of carrying out the rule of the Board of Education.

Mrs. Pierce says she is determined to push the affair to an issue, and will give her lawyer instructions to-

TWO BUILDINGS BURNED.

Explosion of Tank of Gasoline Starts a Lively Fire at Ducommun and Amelia Streets.

An eighty-gallon tank of gasoline in the rear of the grocery and dwelling of A. Howitz, Nos. 502 and 504 Amelia street, exploded from some unknown cause at 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon and caused a fire which seriously damaged two buildings and endangered a number of others. A high wind was blowing and by the time the firemen reached the place in response to an alarm from box 135 the flames were spreading rapidly and threatened to ignite a number of buildings. After forty minutes' work the firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze, which they had confined to two buildings. The most serous loss was in the grocery and dwelling. Mr. Howitz estimates it at $1400. He has $3500 insurance. The building occupied by P. McNamara, No. 690 Ducommun street, was damaged to the amount of $200. There was no insurance on this building.

CEREALS OR MEAT. A Prepared Food Helps to So've the Problem of Good Living, PRICES OF MEAT GO UP.

"While the average housekeeper may be ignorant as to whether a beef trust has been formed or whether the increase in the price of meat is due to other causes, if she is a woman of moderate means, she has become convinced that she must turn to something except animal food for the main fare of her family," says the Buffalo advance in the price of meats, and it is even rumored that prices have not yet reached their limit, but certain it is that the cost of living for the average family has increased rapidly of late until meat has become an article of diet that must necessarily be eliminated from the daily fare of the very poor and has become almost a luvery. poor and has become almost a luxury even to those who have a moderate and usually adequate amount to spend upon the family food. SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Police Commission yesterday handed the "free-ride" or special policeman badge business up to the street rallways by selecting the names of thirty-six men who will wear the stars. Policemen Sam Baker and C. W. Armstrong were yesterday dropped from the rolls by the Bolice Commission for immoral conduct.

The Police Commissioners had a lovely session yesterday, no worthy battles being fought and no fists hammered on the table. No occasion arose for a demonstration of any kind, and there was really nothing doing but the usual routine business. A few saloon licenses transferred, a couple of policemen dropped like hot bricks from the rolls, and the redistribution of the special policemen badges constituted the work of the session.

This isst act was the most important of all, yet it was only important to the City Hall deputies affected. There has been considerable friction between the city officials and the street-rallway companies over this question of just of all, yet it was only smportant to the City Hall deputies affected. There has been considerable friction between the city officials and the street-railway companies over this question of just how many passes or special policeman badges should be issued so the deputies could ride on the cars without putting up the price. It seems that when any Councilman had some pet appointee digging weeds around the parks or along the roads, he had him it use a special policeman's badge. This kind of thing was objected to by the car companies, and the matter was adjusted in a way by calling in sill stars issued to the City Hall deputies. There are about one hundred and twenty regular and regular special officers of various kinds, and in addition to these the car companies also recognized all numbers up to 133. It appears now that there are about thirty deputies of assorted varieties who would like to ride without paying, instead of twenty, and the commission will ask the railway people to honor all stars up to 150.

In this redistribution plan, it was the idea to get all the principal outside deputies within the nincteen numbers now honored by the railways, and this was done in the list handed in yesterday by the commission's Star Committee.

The list as prepared is as follows: Star 120, John McAvoy, City Hospital keeper; 121, Dr. Powers, Health Officer; 122, S. J. Quint, milk inspector; 124, F. T. Hughes, meat inspector; 125, H. L. Hirth ate his dinner last Sunday in a Chinese restaurant on Los Angeles street, near the Plaza, and afterward went to a Chinese store near by to see a Chinese friend. While he was waiting for him Block came along, entered the store, and seeing Hirth, imagined he was there to buy lottery tickets. He wanted to search the laundryman, but the latter kicked at this, and objected so strongly that Block arrested him. He plainly told Block that it was none of his business whether he was buying lottery tickets or not.

Hirth wanted to pay his fare to the Police Station in a street car rather than ride in the patrol wagon, but Block made him go in the wagon.

Saloon Licenses.

James Larquier's application for a restaurant liquor license in the Orpheum saloon at No. 106 South Main street, was inid on the table by the Police Commissioners, pending the proposed interior changes in the saloon. The rules were suspended, and C. Hickson was granted a change of location from No. 121 to No. 113 East First street. Commissioner Walker, in standing sponsor for Hickson, said that Hickson could not get the necessary aignatures for the change of location because some of the frontage was represented by rival saloons.

Halmer & Dutzier were granted a transfer of the license of H. A. Lehndorff for the old Turner café in the basement at No. 236 South Spring street.

The City Treasurer's statement for April shows that although the city has over three-quarters of a million dollars in its pockets, the cash fund of the city is without any apparent chance of getting square with itself. The statement is as follows:

METER ORDINANCE.

Water Commissioners Made Defendants With Superintendent Mulholland. Ordinance Said to Be Unconstitutional. Perpetual Injunction Wanted-Suit

Over Aldrich Estate.

The plaintiff is C. C. Wright, Esq., and the defendants in his action are the city of Los Angeles, the Board of Water Commissioners and Superintendent William Mulholland, Mr., to be named. This decision was reached by way of a cross-complaint that the ordinance violates every constitution that ever happened, including of Charles M. Briggs against W. A. Alderson and others for an accounting.

to install a meter, that the city may know just the amount of water that Mr. Wright uses on the pride of his bosom, to wit, the lawn.

It is alleged in the complaint that Mulholland dug up and destroyed a portion of the pride of Wright's bosom, and so negligently performed the work that a water pipe was broken under a cement walk and stone retaining wall. To fix the break the city employes had to enter upon Wright's pride and make an excavation in it four or more feet deep, and then, after the work was all done, it is aliesed, they carelessly left an excavation under the cement walk, so that it is unstable.

Plaintiff alleges that he was informed by Mulholland that the objectionable meter would be installed merely to ascertain how much water was being used—not to collect a rate. The ordinance provides that only users of uncertain quantities of water, such as railways, distilleries, breweries, elevators, machine shops, manufactories and fountains are authorized to be charged meter rates acharged to all other inhabitants of Los Angeles for irrigation and domestic purposes are not determined by meter measurement, and the only use made of water on his premises is for those purposes.

The ordinance is void, according to Mr. Wright, because section two thereof, in so far as it purports to authorize the city "to apply a meter to any cass at its own expense and collect water rates accordingly," is in violation of the State Constitution, which provides that "all laws of a general mature shall have a uniform operation;" consequently, he argues, the defendants have no warrant or authority for invading his premises to place a meter thereon.

"The ordinance," he adds, defantly, "in its entirety is in conflict with the vading his premises to place a meter thereon.

"The ordinance," he adds, deflantly, "in its entirety is in conflict with the provisions of the four-teenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States and paricularly with section one thereof, which provides that no State shall deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Plaintiff asks that the defendants be perpetually enjoined from trespasse-

REHEARING DENIED.

PATTERSON IS SUPERVISOR. News has just been received from the Supreme Court, now sitting in Sacramento, that a rehearing has been the Superme Court, now sitting in a factoring the Supervisoral fight between Charles E. Patterson of Burbank and James Hanley, both of whom wish to be Supervisor of the Fifth District. Not long ago, it will be remembered, the Superme Court gave the toga to Patterson. Hanley, however, was unwilling to let go without a further struggle, and wanted the higher tribunal to hear further evidence on the appeal from Judge Allen's decision giving it to him.

This the Supreme Court refuses to do, saying:

"A rehearing of this cause is denied, but our former judgment is modified by substituting the following: The judgment of the Superior Court is reversed and the cause remanded for a new trial. Upon such new trial the court may omit a recount of the bailots of at the first trial, taking the results as then ascertained so far as said ballots are concerned. The ballots of 57B are to be counted so far as necessary, and election officers are not to be compelled to disclose the contents of ballots of assisted voters."

The above order will mean no change in the result as hereofore announced, and Patterson cannot help being Supervisor by waiting just a little longer. The Superme Court's new order, however, will simply delay his induction to office ten or twelve days.

ANOTHER KINK.

ANOTHER KINK. SUIT IN ALDRICH ESTATE.

Another law suit has been begun over the estate of Dr. E. W. Aidrich, over the estate of Dr. E. W. Aldrich, the murderous suicide and purported husband of many wives. On Monday Jessie C. Aldrich (Dr. Langford) sued the Public Administrator; yesterday the Public Administrator sued her. It promises to be a very chilly day when distriction with the matter as far as the circulation of the paper is concerned will go to work at once. This work will go to work at once. This work will consist in seeing that the paper's circulation keeps up to the amount per inch charged in the bills rendered the city.

Hawley's Bill.

Detective J. J. Hawley was allowed $27.50 by the Police Commission yesterday for medical services rendered on a cocount of his recent engagement with y Dr. Aldrich, who shot Hawley while resisting arrest.

Bad Coppers.

Chief Eliton surprised some of the spectators at the Police Commission yesterday by recommending the dismissal from the force of patrolman sam Baker and C. W. Armstrong. Baker is well known as the tall, Adonisalike copper of the Spring street squad, and Armstrong's beat this month was on South Los Angeles street. The recommendation was accepted and the officers dismissed instanter, neither being present and no explanation being given.

that the ordinance violates every constitution that ever happened, including particularly the Constitution of the triated States and the Constitution of California.

The pride of Mr. Wright's expansive bosom is a doubly expansive lawn of vernal beauty that surrounds his happy home in Boyle Heights. Under the ordinance he has been paying a water rate of $2.50 a month, although he maintains that the legal rate in his case is only $2.73. The difference he gladly paid until last Saturday, when multipland entered upon his premises to install a meter, that the city may know just the amount of water that Mr. Wright uses on the pride of his bosom, and so negligently performed the work that a water pipe was broken under a portion of the pride of Wright's pride and make an excavation in it four or more feet deep, and then, after the work was all done, it is alleged in the city employés had to enter upon Wright's pride and make an excavation in the four or more feet deep, and then, after the work was all done, it is alleged, they carelessly left an excavation under the cement walk, so that it is unstable.

STOLEN MONEY BUYS GUITAR.

Carlos Ramíres, a straight-haired Central American, pleaded guilty to burglary yesterday, and was sen-tenced to three years in the peniten-tiary at San Quentin. Roy Robbed Again.

P. B. Roy, proprietor of the Wellington saloon on Third street near Broadway, has been robbed again. He reported to the police yesterday that a sneak thief had stolen $30 which had been placed in a glass among the bottles behind the bar. Roy's residence was entered by burglars about two months ago, and several hundred dollars worth of valuables were stolen. Subsequently he thought he saw a man trying to brenk into his house, and reported to the police that he had exchanged shots with the would-be thief.

Wheelman Run Down.

Peter Treuel, a gardener employed by John Singleton of the Yellow Astor mine, was seriously injured last evening by being struck by a south-bound car on the West Ninth street line on Spring street between Seventh and Eighth. He was riding his wheel south along Spring street and turned out to avoid another vehicle. In doing so he rode directly in front of the car. He was knocked from his wheel, and thrown against the curb. He sustained a fracture of the left shoulder blade. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital, and did not regain consciousness until after 10 o'clock last night. His condition is considered serious.

weet orange occurs until a later period, and the exact time it was inperiod, and the exact time it was enti-troduced is unknown. It was culti-vated in Italy early in the sixteenth century. In China and Japan it has flourished from very ancient times, and the sweet orange was undoubtedly first brought by Portuguese to Portugal about 1547, and afterward to the

In modern times the principal source of supply of oranges and lemons for the markets of the world has been Italy, Spain, Portugal, the Azores, Malta, Sicily, the Coast of Syria, whence comes the well-known "Jaffa" orange; the West India Jainds and

The bitter orange is extensively grown in Southern Spain and known generally as the "Seville." It is used principally for the manufacture of marmalade, and dried peel, the latter being also used in medicine as an aromatic tonic. The Maltese or 37. blood orange is much grown in Southern Italy, and is distinguished by the deep red tint of the puip. The Majorca, or seedless, orange also stands high in popular favor. The Mandarin orange of China and the small Tangerine orange, derived from the former variety, are also greatly in demand.

The Bergamot is a species of orange, the tree leaves and flowers being small, the fruit is round and nearly three inches in diameter, with thin lemonyellow, smooth rind, and is mostly cultivated in the neighborhood of Reggio di Calabria in Southern Italy, from whence the entire supply of Bergamot oil comes, which is chiefly used in perfumery and for flavoring in cooking.

The Lemon.

The Lemon.

The lemon is a native of the north-west provinces of India, and like the orange was unknown to the Greeks and Romans. It was brought by the Arabs into Spain about the thirteenth century, and was cultivated in the Azores and shipped to England in 1494. It is now largely grown in Spain, Portugal, Sicily and the Mediterranean regions. There are some forty-seven known varieties, and twelve of sweet lemon. Those most cultivated are the common or Genoa lemon, the thinskinned lemon, the sweet lemon and the citron lemon.

There are some eight varieties of the sweet lime, which are largely cul-tivated in Mexico and also in the West Indies, especially in the Island of Montserrat, which, although having an area of only thirty-two square miles, has the most extensive plantations of limes in the world.

Australasia.

In Tahiti, Fiji and many of the Pacific islands the orange has been long established, and the fruit imported into this country. In Australia, especially in New South Waies, Queensland and South Australia, large quantities of citrus fruits are raised, but mostly for home consumption.

Of all these varieties of the orange the Washington navel is now undoubtedly the most popular, and the most widely cultivated, both in California and Florida. It was first brought to this country from Bahla, Brazil, in 1870, by William Saunders of the Department of Agriculture, and was first named by him "Bahla," in honor of the place from which it came. Twelve trees only were imported, and issued as the "Bahla" orange. Two of these trees were obtained by Mrs. L. C. Tibbetts of Riverside, and as buds were taken from these trees, and the cultivation of it spread throughout the district, it became known also as the "Riverside navel," to distinguish it from a similar, though inferior, variety which had previously been introduced from Australia. It is now said by some authorities that the twelve original trees could not all have been the same variety the fruit.

Citrus Fruits in the United States.

It has been alleged by some that the orange is a native of the Southern States, near the Gulf of Mexico, but the probability rather seems to be that it has been introduced and become naturalized. Indeed, it is said that the orange was first brought to the North American continent by Bernal Dias del Castillo, who accompanied Cortex to Mexico and introduced it into that country.

It was first cultivated in the United States in Florida and Louislana, and at a later date in California, and it is only in these two States that the industry has developed into large and important proportions. The wild or Varieties Cultivated in That State-Shaddock, Pomelo and Lime-Disastrous Results of Severe Frosts-Growers Will Persevere.

John Eaton, who served in the army during the Seminole war, and when discharged at the end of 1837, accepted discharged at the end of 1837, accepted a government grant of 160 acres of land as a settler. Sometime after he budded fifty wild trees growing near his abode, and these afterward became very profitable to him. One of these trees, standing alone, became famous as the "Big Tree," and is said to have often produced 10,000 oranges in one crop! It was not, however, until after the Civil War that the cultivation of the orange was seriously entered upon. It is probably now the most important fruit of the State, and of the lower South. It is cultivated with more or It is cultivated with more or less success along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts, from the Rio Grande to the islands of South Carolina. Fiorida and islands of South Carolina. Fiorida and Louisiana are the enly States in the South that raise more than enough for home consumption. A great freeze, January 12, 1886, when the temperature fell to 14 deg. in some places, put a check on previous extravagant speculation by those who thought it an easy and agreeable way to make a large fortune. By this frost the orange trees of every part of the South, except those below Middle Florida (the lake region of Sumter, Orange, and Lake region of Sumter, Orange, and Lake region. This was also the case in parts of Southern Texas, Mississippl, Alabama and in extreme North Florida, and along the coasts of Georgia and South Carolina, where a few trees were grown.

Specimens of this latter well-known variety, it is said, were forwarded to Orange county. Fla., about the same time they were sent to Southern Callfornia. However, in 1882 A. J. Bidwell procured buds of this variety from A. D. Halght, a near neighbor of Mrs. Tibbotts of Riverside. Trees from both these sources have been bearing in Florida for a number of years, clearly proving it a distinct and superior variety to the Australian navel, previously commonly grown.

Satsuma, introduced into Florida from Japan by Dr. George R. Hall in 1876, remarkably hardy.

Dancy's Tangerine, imported from China.

Shaddock and Pomelo.

The cultivation of these fruits is gradually extending, especially that of the pomelo, which is a first-class marketable fruit, valuable in the spring and early summer after oranges are over, and by some people considered equal to the orange. The pomelo is an indigenous fruit of Indo-China and the Malay Peninsula, and was first brough: to the West Indies by a Capt. Shaddock, from whom it has taken its name. There are said to be about forty distinct varieties of the shaddock. In Florida, especially in Hernando, Hillsboro, Manatee, and Sumter counties, there are many varieties of the shaddock and pomelo, varying considerably in size, quality and general appearance. The shaddock tree is one of the most handsome of the genus. The fruit of some varieties occasionally attains a weight of fifteen pounds. Those most generally cultivated are the Rahama shaddock, the Blood, or Pink shaddock; "Forbidden Fruit," introduced from South Africa by Col. Church of Orlando; Horton's shaddock, and the Mammoth. The pomelo is much larger than an orange and smaller than a shaddock; 't is also called "grape fruit" from its habit of growing in clusters. The leading varieties are the Improved pomelo, Pernambuco pomelo, introduced through the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington the White-feshed Pomelo, the Red-fieshed pomelo, from India, and the Canton pomelo, also a red flesh variety.

Citron.

This fruit is almost invariably ne-glected by the fruit growers of Florida, although it might become a valuable article of export. It forms a low, stragarticle of export. It forms a low, straggling bush, rarely over eight feet in height, but the recumbent branches rooting and extending until a perfect thicket is formed, in which the identity of the parent tree is almost lost.

The varieties grown in Florida are the Lemon Citron, shape oblong like a lemon, very large, weighing from two to eight pounds; the Lyman, a citron imported from the Mediterranean by Gen. H. S. Sanford, so named by the Florida Nurserymen's Association in 1887, in honor of the Rev. Lyman Phelps, who brought it to public notice; and the Orange Citron, so called from being round like an orange.

The Lemon.

The Lemon.

culture in South Florida made great frost of February, 1895, when their cultivation received a severe check. At first the only lemons known in Florida were coarse, overgrown seedlings, of Messina and Sicily varieties, the little bushy "everbearing," and the venerable "French," or "Florida rough" lemon. In the "lake region" lemon culture has received much attention, though to a less extent they are cultivated all over the peninsula of Florida. For the first importation of the fine varieties of the commercial lemon Florida is indebted to Mr. Bidwell and Gen. Sanford. Today Florida produces as fine lemons as grow anywhere in the Sanford. Today Florida produces as fine lemons as grow anywhere in the world, the Villa Franca, Sicily, Belair, Genou and Eureka are most in favor, and are all first-class lemons.

The lemon is more tender than the orange, shaddock and pomelo, but not so tender as the lime, which is almost tropical. About thirty varieties are cultivated in Florida.

The Lime. The lime is perhaps the most tender of all the citrus trees, consequently its culture is confined to a limited territory. It flourishes in situations where an orange tree would soon die, being perfectly at home, with good culture, on the low "hardpan" land so common on the low "hardpan" land so common in South Florida, and grows luxuriantly on rocky, scanty soil. There are over a dozen varieties, including a number introduced from the Himalayan region of India. The "Florida," imported from Mexico, is the ordinary lime cultivated in Florida and the West Indies, and is known in California as the Mexican lime. The Tahiti is another variety grown in this State.

The total acreage therefore amounts to about 27,997 in oranges, and only 491 in lemons.

Oranges are grown in small quantities for household purposes in several other counties than those above mentioned, as in California, but it will be some years before they are produced in sufficient quantities for shipment for trade purposes. The great freeze aiready referred to proved a terrible blow to the orange growers of Florida, in fact, it was nothing less than a disaster which brought ruin to many. The low temperature and severity of the frost were unprecedented in Florida. On the 29th of December, 1894, the temperature fell to 14 deg. at Tampa and Titusville. It was followed by a second frost, equally as severe, in February, 1895.

For ten years previously Florida had been steadily gaining ground in the citrus-fruit industry. In 1884 the shipments amounted to 500,000 boxes; two years later they exceeded a million and a quarter; in 1889 they were over two million boxes; in 1891, 3,761,000; in 1894, 6,900,000. Then in 1895, the shipments dropped to only 75,000 boxes, and the industry has not yet recovered from the effects of that fatal frost, the shipments for 1900 amounting to only 200,000. Although Florida has suffered such a severe setback, the growers are not disheartened, and it is probable that the next few years will see greater developments of the fruit industry than ever before. Favored with a fertile soil and a climate, in ordinary seasons, well suited for semi-tropical fruits, a prosperous future the property of the fruit matures nearly 211 the year round, and is therefore niere the year round, and is therefore niere they exceeded a million and a quarter, in 1895 the way of the lemon, questionably the best for the apricots occupying the fourth place. The largest crop was in 1900, which, according to the State Board of Trade returns, amounted to over 226,000 tons shipped out of the State. So far as temperatures go, citrus fruits cannot be attributed to any special division of the State, for they flourish for a distance running from north to south of nearly 400 miles, in proper situations and soils, more or less in the foothills, and the temperature extremes are practically identical within this long stretch.

The orange is grown from cuttings, layers and seeds; the latter method is almost exclusively followed, and is by far the best. The seasons when the different varieties come to maturity are: The Washington navel, November to May; Malta Blood, March to June; Mediterranean Sweet, April to June; Mediterranean for commercial purposes. At one time the Australian in 1874 by Lewis Wolfskill of Los Angemay be considered the favorite varieties that are grown for commercial purposes. At one time the Australian navel, introduced from Australia in 1874 by Lewis Wolfskill of Los Angeles, was popular, but it has been superseded by the Washington navel, which is decidedly superior.

Southern California was the first portion of the State to take up the cultivation of citrus fruits as a commercial enterprise, and later Northern (north of the Tehachepi Mountains) and Central California, followed suit, and the industry is now spreading rapidly in many of these counties. Sufficient data are now at hand to prove that with judicious selection of sites, especially in the so-called "thermal." or warm belt on the foothills, orange growing can be made a success. These belts skirt the coast valleys, and also the larges inland valleys like the San

They are, however, grown on a great variety of soils, including the black, heavy soil known by the name of black adobe, but the latter must be considered unfavorable on account of the difficulty in irrigating it.

With the exception of a few cases, irrigation is practiced generally, and may be considered necessary to bearing trees. The amount required naturally varies according to the rainfall of the section, as well as of the soil,

First, its chief value is its acid, and it does not require so much heat.

In the twelfth century the Bigarade, or bitter, orange was cultivated in the Levant countries, but no aliusion to the Levant countries, but no aliusion to the sweet orange occurs until a later period, and the exact time it was introduced is unknown. It was cultivated in Italy early in the sixteenth century. In China and Japan it has flourished from very ancient times, and the sweet orange was undoubtedly first brought by Portuguese to Portugal about 1547, and afterward to the Agores, where the "St. Michael" orange first became famous.

The sweet orange abounds in citric acid and possesses in a high degree the antiscorbutic properties that render the lemon and lime so valuable in medicine. The bitter orange is extensively grown in Southern Spain and known generally as the "Seville." It is used principally for the manufacture of marmalade, and dred peel, the latter being also used in medicine as an aromatic tonic. The Maitese or blood orange is much grown in Southern Italy, and is distinguished by the deep red tint of the pulp. The Majorca, or seedless, orange also stands high in popular favor. The Mandarin orange of China and the small Tangerine orange, derived from the former variety, are also greatly in demand.

The Bergamot is a species of orange, the tree leaves and flowers being small, the fruit is round and nearly three inches in diameter, with thin lemonyellow, smooth rind, and is mostly cultivated in the neighborhood of Reggio di Calabria in Southern Italy, fromwhence the entire supply of Bergamot oli comes, which is chiefly used in perfumery and for flavoring in cooking.

It was brought by the Arabs into Spain about the thirteenth century, and was cultivated in the Azores and shipped to England in 1494. It is now largely grown in Spain, Portugal, Sicily and the Mediterranean regions. There are some forty-seven known varieties, and twelve of sweet lemon. Those most cultivated are the common or Genon lemon, the thin-skinned lemon, the sweet lemon and the citron lemon.

bitter orange of Florida has grown from an unknown period in that State in a wild condition; it was undoubtedly brought by the Spanish colonists to the West Indian Islands, and thence to Florida. The industry has been greatly advanced and assisted by the protective tariff, which counterbalanced the advantages foreign producers had previously enjoyed in cheaper labor. Some idea may be formed of the dimensions which the cultivation of citrus fruits has now assumed by the following list of different varieties officially recognized by the United States Department of Agriculture, although the number cultivated for commercial purposes is comparatively few.

In Tahiti, Fiji and many of the Pacific islands the orange has been long established, and the fruit imported into this country. In Australa, especially in New South Waies, Queensland and South Australia, large quantities of citrus fruits are raised, but mostly for home consumption.

Citrus Fruits in the United States.

It has been alleged by some that the orange is a native of the Southern States, near the Guiff of Mexico, but the probability rather seems to be that it has been introduced and become naturalized. Indeed, it is said that the orange was first brought to the North American continent by Bernal Dias del Castillo, who accompanied Cortez to Mexico and introduced it into that country.

It was first cultivated in the United States in Florida and Louisiana, and at a later date in California, and it is only in these two States that the industry has developed into large and important special properties. The wild or large and important special properties and a pomelo.

coming into favor is the little Japanese Kumquat, a little fruit that looks like a plum in orange skin. They were formerly mostly used as a preserve, or candled, but now they are being utilized in the East as a salad. The Kumquat grows in the form of a large bush or small trees, when grown on its own roots. There are two warrents one having among the other plumisms one having among the other plumisms shaped, an inch in diameter, and one and a half to two inches long. The cultivated in pots they are often grafted on hardy orange (Citrus trifosiliatas) which dwarfs them, and is said to render them more hardy.

Sometime after he budded fifty wild trees growing near budded fifty wild trees growing near his abode, and these afterward became very profitable to him. One of these trees, standing alone, became famous as the "Big Tree." and is said to have often produced 10,000 oranges in one crop! It was not, however, until after the Civil War that the cultivation of the orange was seriously entered upon. It is probably now the most important fruit of the State, and of the lower South. It is cultivated with more or less success along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts, from the Rio Grande to the islands of South Carolina. Fiorida and Louislana are the only States in the islands of South Carolina. Fiorida and Louislana are the only States in the South that raise more than enough for home consumption. A great freeze, January 12, 1886, when the temperature fell to 14 deg. in some places, put a check on previous extravagant speculation by those who thought it an easy and agreeable way to make a large fortune. By this frost the orange trees of every part of the South, except those below Middle Florida (the lake region of Sumter, Orange, and Lake counties) suffered severely. In Louislana they were in most cases killed to the ground. This was also the case in parts of Southern Texas, Mississippi, Alabama and in extreme North Florida, and along the coasts of Georgia and South Carolina, where a few trees were grown.

Shaddock and Pomelo.

The cultivation of these fruits is gradually extending, especially that of the pomelo, which is a first-class marketable fruit, valuable in the spring and early summer after oranges are over, and by some people considered equal to the orange. The pomelo is an indigenous fruit of Indo-China and the Malay Peninsuig, and was first brough; to the West Indies by a Capt. Shaddock, from whom it has taken its name. There are said to be about forty distinct varieties of the shaddock. In Florida, especially in Hernando, Hillsboro, Manatee, and Sumter counties, there are many varieties of the shaddock and pomelo, varying considerably in size, quality and general appearance. The shaddock tree is one of the most handsome of the genus. The fruit of some varieties occasionally attains a weight of fifteen pounds. Those most generally cultivated are the Bahama shaddock, the Blood, or Pink shaddock; "Forbidden Fruit," introduced from South Africa by Col. Church of Orlando: Horton's shaddock, and the Mammoth. The pomelo is much larger than an orange and smaller than a shaddock; 't is also called "grape fruit" from its habit of growing in clusters. The leading varieties are the Improved pomelo, Pernambuco pomelo, introduced through the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington the White-fleshed Pomelo, the Red-fleshed pomelo, from India, and the Canton pomelo, also a red flesh variety.

This fruit is almost invariably ne-check. At first the only lemons known in Florida were coarse, overgrown seedlings, of Messina and Sicily varieties, the little bushy "everbearing," and the venerable "French," or "Florida rough" lemon. In the "lake region" lemon culture has received much attention, though to a less extent they are cultivated all over the peninsula of Florida. For the first importation of the fine varieties of the commercial lemon Florida is indebted to Mr. Bidwell and Gen. Sanford. Today Florida produces as fine lemons as grow anywhere in the world, the Villa Franca, Sicily, Belair, Genou. and Eureka are most in favor, and are all first-class lemons.

The lemon is more tender than the orange, shaddock and pomeio, but not so tender as the lime, which is almost tropical. About thirty varieties are cultivated in Florida.

Varieties.

Every one can remember when all omestic oranges were simply "Callfornia oranges," or "Florida oranges." Now all this is changed, and there are not only a considerable number of well-known varieties, but also, in marketing, a large number of different brands—too many, some think. The best authorities on orange culture in California agree in placing the following varieties in the foremost place:

The Washington navel, which has already been fully described.

The Australian navel, at one time cultivated on a considerable scale in Orange county.

The Mediterranean Sweet, imported by chance from England by Elwanger & Barry of Rochester, N. Y., 28 a shaddeck, but proving a good orange instead, was propagated by A. T. Garey of Los Angeles. It is of oval shape and ripens late.

The Lemon.

Although lemons have been grown in California for half a century, it is only during the last decade that they have risen to considerable commercial importance. The lemon is less hardy than the orange, but it is better adapted to the cooler climate of that part of the coast region where frost does not prevail. This is for two reasons. First, its chief value is its acid, and it does not require so much head to develop this quality as the orange; secondly, the fruit matures nearly sit the year round, and is therefore more valuable than where it ripens all, or nearly all, its fruit at one time.

A well-drained sandy loam is unquestionably the best for the lemon, especially when on its own root is this necessary. On orange stock it is much more hardy.

In 1894 a large acreage was planted, both on the coast of Southern California, and in the interior. Experience has proved that the lemon is best suited to the coast region, and the orange to the interior.

The cultivation of the lime has not been undertaken on a large scale in this State, and the Mexican limes are imported in such quantities and sold at such a cheap rate as to make the venture unprofitable, especially taking into consideration that they are very susceptible to frost.

This fruit is but little grown in Callfornia although it is quite hardy, and could be produced over a large area.

county, where Dr. H. W. Westlake has

Number of Trees.

The County Assessor's returns for March, 1902, show a total of 5.050,480 orange trees, of which 3,057,785 were in bearing, and 1,792,695 not bearing. Of lemon trees they show a total of 1,439,458, of which 638,094 were in bearing and 256,372 not bearing. These figures are so manifestly deficient and incorrect that the table by counties is not reproduced here. At a recent meeting of the State Board of Trade, it was stated that there are mistakes or errors amounting to millions in the number of fruit trees returned by the assessors in California, and it appears that in some cases the returns have not been revised for years. For instance, in the assessor's tables the county of San Luis Obispo is given twice as many orange trees as Santa Barbara, and Butte county is credited with about the same number of orange trees as Orange county. The assessors return orange or lemon trees in forty-two of the counties of the State, only eleven counties being reported as not possessing any orange or lemon trees. In only ten counties, however, are there reported to be more than 30,000 orange trees.

PART IV. CITRUS FRUIT TRADE

MPORTS TO THE UNITED STATES

Large Consumption of Citrus Pruits by the British-Most of the Oranges Come from Spain and the Lemons from Italy-The Acreage of California

Trade in Citrus Fruits,

Trade in Citrus Fruits.

The import and export returns of the two countries which import the largest amount of citrus fruits, vis.: the United Kingdom and the United States, form an interesting and instructive study. The United States Imports oranges principally from the British West Indies, Mexico, Italy, the United Kingdom, Cuba and Japan, but by far the greatest quantity comes from the British West Indies, which last year contributed 33,000,000 pounds out of the the greatest quantity comes from the British West Indies, which last year contributed 33,000,000 pounds out of the $4,000,000 imported.

The lemons come almost exclusively from Italy, chiefly Sicily. Last year the quantity from that country amounted to 144,000,000 pounds out of 145,000,000 imported, or almost three times the quantity of oranges imported. The exports of domestic oranges appear to be increasing, the value last year amounting to $436,000, against $271,000 the previous year.

The figures of the imports into the United Kingdom are remarkable, as they give a better idea of the enormous trade in citrus fruits than could be obtained in any other way. The value of oranges annually imported amounts to no less than $10,000,000, and of lemons upward of $2,000,000. There is room here for a great development of the American citrus-fruits trade, which should not be overlooked. At present Apain easily takes the first place, as she also does in raisins, and other countries may be said to be nowhere, as out of the $10,000,000 for oranges she claims $5,000,000, Asiatic Turkey, or Asia Minor, being next with only $500,000. In lemons Italy leads a long way, with nearly $2,000,000, Spain coming next with about $250,000 as the value of her exports in this fruit. Frevious to $500 the quantities were entered in bushels; in that year they were changed to hundredweights of $112 pounds, but are here given in pounds for the sake of easy comparison. The actual amount

Higgins of San Diego county, and grown mostly in that county.

The Lime.

The Lime.

The cultivation of the lime has not been undertaken on a large scale in his State, and the Mexican limes are mported in such quantities and sold at such a cheap rate as to make the renture unprofitable, especially taking into consideration that they are very susceptible to frost.

The Citron.

This fruit is but little grown in California although it is quite hardy, and ould be produced over a large area. They have been imported from the dediterranean region by the United states Department of Agriculture, and lanted at several points in Southern alifornia. oranges are aimost all "wild," that is, not cultivated in groves or orchards, but growing throughout the pastures, etc., where the seed was carried by birds. When the English took Jamaica from Spain in 1655, they found both the sweet and bitter, or Seville orange growing there; also the lemon, lime and citron. The Mandarin was distributed from the botanical gardens in 1846. The following figures of the total exports from Jamaica for the year ending March 31, 1901, will give an idea of the magnitude of the fruit trade from the West Indian Islands.

The fruit of her consecrated labor was given to the world in 1875 in her book, "Science and Health, With Key to the Scriptures." This book is the text-book of Christian Science, and its author, Mary Baker G. Eddy, is the recognized leader of the most remarkable religious movement of modern times—a religion founded upon the sacred revelation of scripture, and which insistently and persistently declares that Jesus the Christ revealed the Father to all men for all time. flourishing denomination of earnest Christian people grow from what seemed such an intangible beginning: but the growth of Christian Science has been as rapid as its history has been as rapid as its history has been simple, and its achievement as great as its purpose is noble.

In the year 1886 a woman born and reared in the religious atmosphere of New England, when seemingly helpless and almost hopeless, turned in her extremity to God and was healed, as thousands throughout all ages have been healed and saved when they have trusted God. This fervent, religious woman, knowing that God is no respecter of persons, entered upon the task of searching out His immutable law, by which she was healed and by brought peace to the troubled, happiness to the miserable, and hope to the despairing; but, like every reform, it has been denounced from the pulpit and platform, ridiculed and misrepresented by its enemies, and forsaken by a few who found its moral and spiritual requirements beyond their capacity. But notwithstanding all this, the movement is today firmly established as a force successfully working for good morals, good citizenship, and a greater spirituality. Its mission in human affairs is to stem the tide of materialism, to lessen and in time overthrow selfishness, brutality and greed, and to usher in the realization of the brotherhood of man.

STATISTICS OF GROWTH. In 1867 Mrs. Eddy established the In 1867 Mrs. Eddy established the first school for teaching Christian Science. In 1878, with six students, she organized the first Christian Scientist Association. In 1879 she organized the first church of the denomination. In 1881 she opened the Massachusetts Metaphysical College, chartered by the State of Massachusetts. In 1883 she established the Christian Science Journal, the first denominational periodical, and became its editor.

The church organized in 1879, with cluded students from twenty-five States and Territories and five foreign countries.

The Christian Science Journal has been supplemented by the Christian Science Sentinel, a weekly paper, and the Christian Science Sentinel, a weekly paper, and the Christian Science Quarterly, which contains the Sunday lesson sermons used in all of the churches of the denomination.

The number of organized churches and societies holding regular Sunday services and Wednesday evening meetings, increased from one in 1879 to 415 in June, 1900, and to 651 in October, 1901. The increase in the seventeen months preceding October, 1901, was about 54 per cent. Greater New York has eight Christian Science churches, Chicago five, Philadelphia four and Buffalo four. Quite recently the doctrines of Christian Science have secured a firm foothold in England, Scotland and Germany, and the present indications are that the growth of the denomination in those conservative countries will be as rapid as in the United States and Canada. The directory of practitioners, published in a recent issue of the Christian Science Journal, includes the names, of persons in Mexico, Australia, the Bahamas, China, France, Hawaii, Italy, the Philippine Islands and Switzerland.

CHURCHES WITHOUT MORTGAGES

The growth of the denomination has not been due to any effort on the part of Christian Scientists to proselyte of Christian Scientists to proselyte from or misrepresent other denominations, but is due to the fact that the practical application of the teachings of Christian Science has proved beyond contention to thinking people who have investigated the subject that salvation is possible and within the reach of all who faithfully and earnestly strive for it. It is not the purpose of Christian Scientists to interfere with those who

BASIS OF SUCCESS.

It may reasonably be asked why this denomination has grown so rapidly, and an equality reasonable answer, would be that in all ages humanity has been crying out for some certain demonstrable system by which it might be relieved from pain and suffering, and find health and peace and happiness, and, above all, that it might know God, "whom to know aright is life eternal." Those who have turned to God through Christian Science gratefully testify that they have found health, peace and happiness and a demonstrable knowledge of God and His Son, Jesus Christ, applicable to all their needs, and never failing when honestly applied.

The American Encyclopedic Dictionary says: "The foundational truths of Christian Science are the reality and allness of God, the unreality and nothingness of matter, the spirituality of man and the universe, the omnipotence of good, the impotence of evil. The demonstrative actuality of Christian Science essentially distinguishes it from all other religions of the age."

The National Cyclopedia of American Biography says of Christian Science: "Many people of the thinking class are turning to this science and adopting it, because in it they find a solid foundation, a sure abiding peace, the ve-ification of the promises of Jesus, and a demonstrable Christianity."

carloads. For April, 1901, there were 3307 carioads of oranges and 82 of lemons sent out. The decrease in oranges is 135 carloads for the month. There was an increase of lemons amounting to twenty carloads.

For the six months of the current season, November 1, 1901, to April 30, 1902, the shipments of oranges number 12,505 carloads, and of lemons 859. For the same period last season the shipments were 17,295 carloads of oranges and 1044 of lemons. This shows a falling off of 5391 carloads of oranges this season in six months and 168 of lemons.

The falling off in shipments of oranges has all been in the four months of 1902, as up to New Year's Day, the figures for the two seasons were practically the same. It is an average falling off of 1348 carloads per month, or just about the same as for April, the declines for that month being 1351.

The May movement this year will show a much greater decrease from that of May, 1391, and each month thereafter is likely to show the same results, not in number of cars, of course, but in the ratio of one month to another.

To date, May 12, this year, the total movement of citrus fruit has been 14,356 carloads, of which 1029 carloads were lemons. It is not thought that there remains above 3000 carloads of oranges and lemons of the current crop. After May 1, last year the shipments amounted to 7000 carloads.

Men's Diseases

AND THEIR

Scientific Treatment

All my methods of treating men's diseases are based upon absolutely scientific principles. They are methods original with myself. Like methods are employed by no other physician, nor does any other physician or specialist duplicate the results I obtain by their use. Perfect results are conclusive proof of scientific accuracy. I have treated men only for fifteen years, and my ability to effect thorough and absolutely permanent cures has won me the largest practice of its kind in the entire west.

Contracted Disorders.

Every contracted disease is attended by grave dangers that nothing less than a thorough and asset the second remove. The second is a second remove and the tremove in such cases is to invite life-tion misery. Men do not realize this as they should. A partial cure is fol-lowed by a chronic stage with all its horrors the same as though the disease had not been treated at all. I positively will not dismise a patient until every possibility of relapses is removed. By my system of treatment every patient is soundly cured, and made as free from disease taint as he was before the ailment was contracted.

Varicocele.

"Weakness."

Stricture.

Specific Blood Poison.

Varicocele.

This most prevalent of all diseases of men is also the most neglected, either through dread of the harsh methods of treatment commonly employed, or through ignorance of the grave dangers that accompany the disease. As varicocele interferes directly with the circulation and process of waste and repair, throughout the generative organs, the necessity of a prompt and thorough cure cannot be too forchly emphasized. I cure varicocele in one week by an absolutely painless process. My cures are thorough and absolutely permanent and are accomplished without the use of knife, ligature or caustis. Though I have seldom made mention of this distressing aliment in my announcements, new cases come to me every day for treatment as a result of recommendations from those I have cured. I positively cure all cases of piles by the use of soothing and healing remedies. I can guarantee a complete cure in every instance.

ACADEMY OF SCIENCES.

Prof. Larkins of Lick Observatory a Prominent Visitor at the Annual Meeting Last Night.

Prof. Larkins, director of Lick Observatory, was an eminent guest at the meeting of the Southern California Academy of Sciences last night.

Prof. Larkins is a man of much note in astronomical circles, and his writings upon the subject are just now attracting attention. He talks as glibly of things terrestrial as the average mortal talks of tadpoles, but he seemingly does it under high pressura. A frail, white-haired little man, he stands with knees sprung forward, hands gripping each other as if to twist the fingers off; looks at the floor and talks with an unsteady voice. But he's onto his job concerning stars and that Dr. Palmer, who, is in said that Dr. Palmer, and that Dr. Palmer, and that Dr. Palmer, was the author of restory, and that Dr. Palmer, was the author of restory, and that Dr. Palmer, was the author of restory, and that Dr. Palmer, was the author of restory, and that Dr. Palmer, and the said that Dr. Palmer, and that Dr. Palmer, and the said that Dr. Palmer, and the said that Dr. Palmer, and the said that Dr. Palmer, and that Dr. Palmer, and that Dr. Palmer, and the said that Dr. Palmer, and

Mrs. Florence Zahn has sold, through W. M. Gariand & Co., to William M. Cameron a lot 84x155 feet, to a twenty-foot alley, on the west side of Spring street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, and seventy-eight feet south of the Hotel Angelus, with a three-story pressed-brick business building, worth about $40,000, and known as the Grand Pacific Hotel, for $150,000. Negotiations for the sale of this property have been pending for some time. ON MAIN STREET.

The lot, 581/2x140 feet, on the west side of Main, 181 feet south of Sixth street, with a ten-room two-story frame building, known as the Solano property, has been purchased of Mrs. Frances Zahn by a local investor for 40,000. Dr. C. P. Palmer, one of Kansas City's best-known physicians, is either a merry joker, or the victim of a hoax, or he is desirous of impressing the people of Missouri with the statement that he is about to become a wealthy man.

If he is a joker, he has chosen a grewsome subject—two corpses; if he is the butt of a joke, he will have a rude awakening; if his hope was to impress his friends with his coming financial greatness, the attempt will prove fu-tile, and will react on him like a hopemeraps.

MRS. MARY HOLT, No. 185 West 88th Street, New York City, N. Y. ANY THOUGHTFUL WOMAN who will read the two connection, must conclude that if these statements are truthful Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a truly wonderful medicine for the cure of diseases peculiarly womanly.

derful medicine for the cure of diseases peculiarly womanly.

But the "if" in the case. If these statements are true. Is there a woman who will question the truth of such statements."

Mas. Janie Thompson, resident West End Mother's Club, No. 564 West 7th Street, New York City, N. Y.

Suppose you knew a woman who had been cruelly injured, brutally beaten, let us say. You knew the person guilty of the outrage and when the injured woman sought reparation, her redress depended on whether you would take the witness stand. Would you do it? Would you sit silent in the face of her suffering just to spare yourself the publicity of a court room? Never! No true woman would do that. Now reverse the case. Here are women who have been helped, not injured. They know that thousands of women are in the same condition of disease from which they suffered before being cured by Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription. What would we say of women know that thousands of women are in the same condition of disease from which they suffered before being cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. What would we say of women working for the good of their sex, if they kept the fact of the cure secret and to avoid publicity, sat silent while it was in their power to give new life and strength to a thousand suffering women, by proclaiming how their diseases had been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? Should we not say such women are heartless? It is heart sympathy with the suffering of their sex which moves such good women to put all personal feeling aside and point to the means by which womanly diseases are cured.

Hundreds of thousands of weak and sick women bear testimony to the fact that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It cures headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness and other consequences weakness. It cures headache, backache nervousness, sleeplessness and other consequences of womanly diseases. It is a superior tonic and nervine for weak, worn-out, run-down women, restoring them to sound health.

women, restoring them to sound health.

There is no excuse for womanly suffering in view of the cures of womanly diseases effected by the use of "Favorite Prescription." In ninety-eight cases out of every hundred it perfectly and permanently cures the womanly diseases for which it is prescribed if it is only given a fair and faithful trial. Even in the rare cases where a perfect cure is impossible it is of great benefit, alleviating pain, reducing suffering and giving increased strength.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All letters are held as strictly private and the written confidences of women are guarded by the same strict professional privacy observed by Dr. Pierce and his staff in personal consultations with weak and sick women at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Pierce's offer of free consultation by letter should not be confused with offers of "free medical advice," made by persons who are not physicians, and are not qualified to practise medicine. In a little more than thirty years, Dr. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., assisted by his staff of nearly a score of physicians, has treated and cured hundreds of thousands of weak and sick women.

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well, Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.
